Livestock Dying May Be Exterminated People Eating Dead Bodies and Are Starting Now to Kill Each Other

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who is closely identified with Russian relief, expressed himself in a pessimistic manner in a statement to the press representatives this afternoon regarding the famine in Russia.

"It is too late to save the people of Russia," he declared. "Whatever is done, they will die by the millions. Livestock is dying everywhere, and if nothing is done there will presently be none remaining. Twenty American dollars will keep a horse alive, but a human life can be saved for 15 shillings; that sum would keep a man alive until the new harvest."

"You may talk about the horrors of war, but these people suffer for weeks and months before they die. Their bodies are nothing but skin and bones, but the famine-stricken do not come to that state until many days have passed."

Asked if there was any truth in the reports of cannibalism, Dr. Nansen replied that there was, but said it was not widespread as yet. "In many places the people are eating dead bodies," he added, "but in the Samara regions they are beginning to kill one another."

Dr. Nansen will appeal to the British people tomorrow night for Russian relief.

WHALEERS MADE SIMPLE CASKET FOR SHACKLETON

The Noted Explorer Will Rest in Wooden Coffin Constructed by His Crew

BODY AT MONTEVIDEO

Remains Will Have a Guard of Honor Until Shipped to England

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 29.—The body of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, lies in a hospital here in a rough, wooden coffin that was made for him by his crew in the island of South Georgia where he died on January 5. A "guard of honor" will be maintained by the British government, and the remains will be sent to England.

When Made Sailed

"I am sure that it is what he would wish—in keeping with his own simple life," said a local newspaper, "that the body of the explorer be sent to his home in England, where he will be buried with the honors of a hero."

As described by Capt. Hudson, the body of Sir Ernest Shackleton was found on the ice of South Georgia, on January 5. The body was found in a small hut, and the explorer was found to be suffering from exhaustion and cold.

The explorer planned to proceed direct to the South Pole in a day or two for the first expedition. He returned to the ship from the land on the morning of January 10, and was found to be suffering from exhaustion and cold.

FOUR-GEAR RECEIVES DASH DELEGATES

NATIONAL FISH DAY for THE DOMINION IS TOMORROW

Unexcelled Resources in World Fisheries in Canada

Fishing Conditions During 1920

The outstanding feature of 1920 results in a very large falling off in the aggregate catch of cod, haddock, hake and pollock. The shortage was not due to scarcity of fish, but rather to a poor demand at lower prices, which caused many fishermen to give up fishing altogether. The greater part of the four kinds named is sold, and is dried for consumption in foreign markets, which are also supplied by Newfoundland, United States, Norway, Great Britain and France. During the war years, with Great Britain and France completely out of the business, and Norway largely so, prices rose to an abnormal level. The unsettled state into which the business of the world has been thrown, however, since the ending of the war and the landing of war supplies by the fishing fleets of Europe, temporarily blocked the outlets for the produce and caused prices to drop to a level at which fishermen find it unremunerative to continue operations.

Salmon Catch Short

The salmon catch on the Pacific coast fell short of that in the preceding year. This was largely due to the poor demand for the cheaper grades—pink and chum. Since the war ended, it has been found difficult to get rid of large quantities of these cheaper kinds, and packers therefore did not pack as many as usual in the past season. The catch of salmon on the Atlantic coast, all of which was consumed fresh, was considerably less than that of the preceding year.

There was a great increase in the herring catch. Most of the increase, however, came from the Pacific coast in the opening months of the year. The lobster fishery on the Atlantic coast was also good, and throughout the season. This increase in the catch was common on all parts of the coast.

The mackerel fishery was not as successful as in the preceding year. Poor fishermen operated and winter fishing was not so good. The formation of ice on the lakes, while the lack of snow made it almost impossible for operators to reach the more distant points where the best catches are taken. Prices were somewhat higher, however, than in the preceding year.

LINES COMPANY NOT GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

In the report in the Monday morning issue of The Bulletin, that the Dominion Motor company had taken over the business of the Lines Motor Company, it appears that the statement is not altogether correct. As explained, the Dominion Motor company has the agency for Ford in Edmonton and district, but the Lines company will continue its business at its present stand and will continue to sell the cars of the Lines company, of which they have a considerable stock on hand.

The Almost-mind One

Coastline of Five Thousand Miles Excluding Lesser Bays and Inlets Able to Provide Food For Millions

Canada possesses the most extensive fisheries in the world, and the abundance, quality and variety of their product are unexcelled. The fertility of Canadian waters is indicated by the fact that the entire catch of salmon, herring, mackerel and sardines, nearly all the haddock and many of the cod, hake, and pollock landed are taken within ten or twelve miles from shore.

The coast line of the Atlantic province from Grand Manan to Labrador, not including the lesser bays and indentations, measures over 5,000 miles, while the sea areas to which this forms the natural basin embrace—the Bay of Fundy, 8,000 square miles in extent; the Gulf of St. Lawrence, fully ten times that size, and other ocean waters aggregating not less than 200,000 square miles, or over four-fifths of the fishing grounds of the North Atlantic. In addition there are 15,000 square miles of in-shore waters, entirely controlled by the Dominion. Large as are these areas, they represent only a part of the fishing grounds of Canada. Hudson Bay, with a shore 6,000 miles in length, is greater than the Mediterranean; the Pacific coast of the Dominion measures over 7,000 miles long, and is exceptionally well sheltered for fishermen; while throughout the interior is a series of lakes which together cover 220,000 square miles, or more than half the fresh water of the globe, Canada's share of the Great Lakes and of the St. Lawrence basin alone amounting to 34,000 square miles.

HUNDREDS GIVEN EMPLOYMENT BY FISH INDUSTRY

640 Canneries and Curing Establishments Were Operating During 1920

Of the 640 cannery and curing establishments in operation in 1920, 483 were operated by individuals, 244 by partnerships, 318 by joint stock companies and seven by co-operative associations. The vast majority of establishments according to average number of employees shows that 612 establishments are in the group of those employing less than 100 men. The three establishments report that no persons were employed during 1920, the work in these establishments being performed by the operators themselves.

Employees and Wages

In fish canning and curing establishments employees on salaries numbered 631; employees on wages 12,117; and contract and piece workers 4,711. Total employees, 17,459. Total paid to all employees was $1,616,250. $718,178 in salaries, $1,197,100 in wages, and $1,616,250 in contract and piecework. In the canning business, the British Columbia coast of the labor is employed under contract, the contractor advancing and paying his own bill, and being himself paid by the factor according to the quantity of the fish packed. For these contract workers and for the piece-workers no statistical employment, although many number so employed, and although paid to them, are available. Table 7 gives numbers of employees and salaries and wages under the three classifications for 1918, 1919 and 1920.

Grain in Storage Shows a Decrease

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—(By Canadian Press.) According to figures received at the Dominion Jan. 30, the quantity of grain in store at the district elevators throughout Canada has increased by 4,624,700 bushels since Jan. 1, 1921. Wheat, 2,060,000 bushels; oats 3,043,000 bushels; barley 1,407,000 bushels; and rye 11,600 bushels. Flax indicates an increase of 1,500 bushels.

In the western country elevators in Canada there were in store 28,000 bushels of wheat, valued at $2,800,000. Wheat, flax and rye show decreases of 60,000, 10,000 and 11,000 bushels respectively.

BOUNTY GIVEN TO ENCOURAGE THE FISHERMEN

Federal Department Appropriates $100,000 Annually for Purpose

Under the authority of "An Act to encourage the development of the sea fisheries and the building of fishing vessels" the sum of $100,000 is appropriated annually by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and paid to fishermen of the eastern maritime provinces. The bounty is distributed under regulations made from time to time by the governor in council.

For the year 1920 payment was made on the following basis: To owners of vessels entitled to receive bounty $1 per registered tonnage to the owner of any one vessel, not to exceed $100.

To vessel fishermen entitled to receive bounty, $1.10 each.

To owners of boats measuring not less than 10 ft. in length.

To boat fishermen entitled to receive bounty, $1.10 each.

There were 1,111 boats claimed, and 9,444 paid. In the preceding year 1,004 boats were claimed, and 10,061 paid.

The total amount paid was $112,819.30, allocated as follows: To 612 vessels and their crews, $52,774.40.

To 1,502 boats and their crews, $59,441.50.
